

ZEON Corporation to Move Head Office

February 28, 2005

In line with the progress of the Marunouchi Redevelopment Project, ZEON Corporation (President & CEO: Naozumi Furukawa) has announced it will move its head office, currently located in Furukawa Sogo Building, to Shin Marunouchi Center Building, both located in Marunouchi, Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo. Operations at the new location will start Tuesday, March 22, 2005. In addition, in order to strengthen and streamline cooperation within the ZEON Group, other head offices of some Group companies currently located in other areas in Tokyo (see below) will also be relocated to the same building, enabling ZEON Corporation to create innovative products and to provide better services as a whole ZEON Group.

1. Reason for the move

The Furukawa Sogo Building, the current site of the head office, is scheduled for renovation beginning in 2006 as part of the Marunouchi Redevelopment Project. ZEON Corporation had been carefully examining new locations for its head office in accordance with the progress of the Redevelopment Project, and selected the Shin Marunouchi Center Building for its complete IT infrastructure and ample space for other Group companies, as well as for its favorable costs.
